

Natsu and His Fairy

by Uselesswriter13

Category: Fairy Tail

Genre: Romance

Language: English

Characters: Lucy H., Natsu D.

Status: Completed

Published: 2016-04-14 01:17:04

Updated: 2016-04-14 01:17:04

Packaged: 2016-04-27 18:28:02

Rating: K

Chapters: 1

Words: 1,043

Publisher: www.fanfiction.net

Summary: Nalu. 1000 words. Natsu has a dream showing one of his worst fear with Lucy but she won't ever say goodbye to him. One shot. First story on here. Please review.

Natsu and His Fairy

_Where was she going? That long hair flying out behind her. That laugh that made a permanent smile stick to my face. Moving almost like she was floating through the woods looking back smiling. I couldn't keep up. She was too fast for me. Something was pulling me away. I fell. Tripped and rolled until I was on my knees reaching out. _

"_Fairy, where are you going?! Don't leave me!" _

_She just turned and smiled giggling and waved. Then she was leaving. Igneel. She was leaving like he did. _

"_No! No please!" I couldn't get up. Something was pulling me. I couldn't fight it. I didn't have my magic. _

"_Fairy please! Don't say goodbye!" All of the light in these woods was going to her. She was dancing among it all laughing leaving me alone in the dark._

"Natsu!" I jerked up then and looked around. I was at a table in the guild hall. Lucy was next to me. Her normal blue and white outfit seemed brighter than before and that smile. The fairy had the same one. Happy was next to me worried.

"You OK?"

"You looked like you had a bad dream." I nodded a bit then.

"It's nothing. I'm OKâ€¦| Thanks." Lucy nodded, worry was in her eyes but then it was replaced by excitement once again.

"Oh right! I almost forgot!"

"What?"

"There's a job perfect for us! It's less than an hour away if you're up for it!" I smiled then shooting up.

"Oh sweet! What kind?!"

"Taking out bandits. It'll just be us three since Erza got sick and Grayâ€¦." I chuckled then. Gray had been kidnapped by Juvia for the day. Cana was with them though so he would survive.

"That's good with me. Let's go!" We took off running then with happy trailing behind until I jumped and pulled him to my shoulder. We were all smiles as we left and even on the way there, we were smiling and being silly. Mirajane had been giving Lucy tips on how to become a model and as we walked, she sometimes showed off the poses. It was amazing. I never did understand. Lucy was just perfect the way she was. Why did she think she had to change?

There was one benefit to her posing, I found out. It pulled the bandit gang out faster. One came up behind her, grabbing her at the waist and very quickly got to taste my sandal. The others came out then and it was on. They had set up in a shack close by but just like them, it was knocked straight to the ground to eat dirt. We got a bag of stolen goods the requester wanted and soon headed to the next town. By the time we had turned it in and got the reward cash, it was getting dark. There was still enough sun that if we ran, we could make it back. So we took off. I was in the lead at first but as it got darker, I started slowing down. I couldn't see as well. I felt her pass me up with happy and she started laughing. I slid to a stop then. Lucy was there ahead of me. Fireflies were following her like stars trailing behind her. I could almost see my dream fairy ahead of me. She was leaving me.

"Noâ€¦." This wasn't the dream. She wouldn't leave me. She wouldn't say goodbye. I took off then and just got her. Lucy gasped but I just held her as we both slid to a stop.

"Natsu?!" I couldn't tell her. I didn't want to tell her. I just wanted to hold her close. She was smiling. I could feel it as she hugged me back.

"I knowâ€¦ I'm really glad this was an easy job too. We did good." I nodded and smiled.

"Always. We're Fairy Tail's strongest team!"

"Yeah we are!" She laughed then and I let her go except for her hand. She didn't mind. She held my hand back just as tightly. We stayed walking then. It was getting dark but it didn't feel it. The amount of fireflies that were out helped until we got into town. All the lights were lit but the streets were dead. It was a lot later than we thought so I made sure to take her to her door. Lucy got it unlocked and soon looked over.

"See you tomorrow?"

"Yeah. We've got to brag to Gray after all." She nodded then and smiled.

"We should go check on Erza too if she's not back. She'll want to know too."

"Got it!" She smiled then and soon stepped in.

"Just make sure you get some real sleep tonight Natsu."

"Yeah yeahâ€|" She laughed then and waved to Happy before closing the door. I just smiled and soon started towards our place. Happy was next to me and smiled.

"You knowâ€| I don't think I've ever heard her say goodbye. All of these timesâ€|"

"I knowâ€| but you know what?"

"What?"

"I don't want her to." Happy looked over and I smiled.

"When you say goodbye, it means you're leaving and don't know if you're coming backâ€| so I don't want to hear her say that." He laughed a bit then and soon landed on my shoulder laying out.

"You're a funny guy Natsu."

"You're a funny cat, Happy." He just laughed and we went quiet as we headed for home and rest. Soon I was laying out on my bed with him curled up on his pillow dead to world, while I looked out at the stars until I fell asleep smiling.

The darkness was fading. I looked up and there was the fairy smiling. She looked so much like Lucy and brushed away my tears.

"_Silly. I won't ever say goodbye to you." I smiled then and soon took her gentle hand and stood up out of the darkness. I was led by my fairy into a shining meadow and soon just held her close. I didn't know where my fairy was going but I didn't care. We had all the light we would need for a better tomorrow. So long as we never said goodbye to each other._

End
file.